Having been raised as a Christian, my mother had always encouraged me to pursue my own relationship with God. However, it wasn't until I met my fiancé Adam that I truly began my journey. My fiancé, being raised as a Catholic, introduced me to the Catholic Church, and I am very grateful for this. Because of my background and Adam's guidance, I decided it was time for me to strengthen my relationship with God by enrolling in the RCIA program here at St. Fabian Catholic Church, and I am so happy I have. I am excited for Easter Vigil and to continue my journey as a member of the Catholic Church.

I was born and raised Catholic. I was baptized, and had my first communion, but never went through confirmation. I lost my father 6 years ago, and moved back to Michigan almost 2 years ago. I started going back to church with my grandmother, and decided I wanted to get confirmed. I love the atmosphere of St. Fabian, and my mother went to school here, so I feel very comfortable.

Gabriel Gerardo

Hi, I'm Gabriel Gerardo. When I was little religion was a major thing in my family we would go to mass all day and pray every dinner meal. But after 5th grade, my family would stop attending mass due to work and other family events. So that meant I haven't been going to mass often outside from school. I'm thankful that I have the blessing to attend the University of Detroit Jesuit High School and Academy. From attending the University of Detroit I have learned some life lessons about myself and my religion. I've preserved a few obstacles in my teen life so why not get confirmed to the Church.

My family is Catholic, however my mother left the church before I was born, and I was never baptized. I have seen the love and faith that my still-practicing family has and have attended mass a lot throughout my childhood. I got engaged to a practicing Catholic and he brought me back into the church and told me about RCIA (I thought I would have had to go to classes with the kids). I have learned so much in the beginning to my spiritual journey and look forward to growing in faith.
